VOLUME 21, NUMBER 1

Journalist and historian Brookhiser to speak July 27

JOURNALIST, historian, and biographer Richard Brookhiser will discuss the relationship between two members of his favorite group of people—America’s Founding Fathers—at Monticello this summer.

Brookhiser’s talk, “Private Friendship and Political Harmony: The Partnership of Thomas Jefferson and James Madison,” will be held on the West Lawn of Monticello on the evening of Tuesday, July 27.

Brookhiser is a senior editor at National Review, which he joined in 1977. He has written for numerous other magazines, including The New Yorker, Cosmopolitan, Atlantic Monthly, Time, and Vanity Fair, as well as the New York Times, Wall Street Journal, and other newspapers.

He is also widely known for his books on America’s founders. These include Founding Father: Rediscovering George Washington (1996), Alexander Hamilton, American (1999), America’s First Dynasty: The Adamses, 1735-1918 (2002), Gentleman Revolutionary: Gouverneur Morris, the Rake Who Wrote the Constitution (2003), and What Would Our Founders Do? Our Questions, Their Answers (2006).

He also wrote and hosted Rediscovering George Washington, a film by Michael Pack that aired on PBS in 2002, and was the historian curator of “Alexander Hamilton: The Man Who Made Modern America,” an exhibition at The New-York Historical Society in 2004-05.

Brookhiser’s most recent book is Right Time, Right Place: Coming of Age with William F. Buckley Jr. and the Conservative Movement (2009).

A graduate of Yale University, Brookhiser received an honorary degree from Washington College in Chestertown, Md., in 2005 and a National Humanities Medal from the National Endowment for the Humanities in 2008.

In addition to the talk by Brookhiser, the July 27 event, which will begin at 6 p.m., will include walk-through tours of the house and an outdoor reception with wine and hors d’oeuvres.

Tickets for “An Evening at Monticello with Richard Brookhiser” are $35; no discounts apply. Reserved tickets are required and can be purchased online at www.monticello.org or by calling (434) 984-9880.

The event with Brookhiser will be second of its type at Monticello. The first, held last June, featured Benjamin Wallace, author of The Billionaire’s Vinegar: The Mystery of the World’s Most Expensive Bottle of Wine, and was sold out.
